PREPARING FOR YOUR STAY AND GETTING SETTLED

Practical guide for international PhD students
Congratulations, you are going to prepare your PhD in one of the research labs of the Université Grenoble Alpes! Getting a PhD degree is a scientific and human experience that requires a lot of effort, creativity and dedication. For international PhD students, this adventure comes with major changes: you not only have to complete your research work, but also discover and learn about a new country!

To avoid being overwhelmed upon arrival, you need to keep in mind the steps you must take and the roles of the different people with whom you will interact.

This guide, written specifically for international PhD students, will give you an overview of all the steps awaiting you, from getting accepted into your research unit through to completing your administrative enrollment at the Doctoral college, which will officially confirm the beginning of your PhD.

More detailed information about the day-to-day practical matters covered in this guide can be found in the “Doctoral student” section of the web portal dedicated to internationals: international.univ-grenoble-alpes.fr/en/doctoral-student/

For information concerning the progression of your doctoral training program, you can also refer to the dedicated portal of the Université Grenoble Alpes: https://doctorat.univ-grenoble-alpes.fr/en/
UNIVERSITÉ GRENOBLES ALPES

The Université Grenoble Alpes is a major global research hub in the Auvergne-Rhône-Alpes region. It is internationally renowned in many scientific areas, as attested by international rankings, the number of «highly cited scientists» or the number of «European Research Council» awards.

The site benefits from major European instruments such as the European Synchrotron Radiation Facility (ESRF), hosts prestigious research organizations such as the CEA, CNRS, Inria and the Institut Laue Langevin (ILL), and is close to the CERN. The Université Grenoble Alpes is at the heart of the development of the city of Grenoble and its dynamic ecosystem, which is based on a solid cooperation between universities, «grandes écoles», research organizations and the socioeconomic world. Grenoble is ranked the world’s 5th most innovative city (Forbes 2013).

With its stunning mountain views, the campus offers the highest quality of life and work. The Université Grenoble Alpes boasts 9,000 international students and is host to more than 8,000 visiting researchers from all over the world every year. It truly is an international community.
FRENCH PHD DEGREE

In France, the PhD is a research training program leading to the highest university degree. Preparing a PhD normally takes three years, and requires holding a national Master's degree or other degree equivalent to the Master's level. The research work undertaken is assessed through the writing of a thesis followed by its «defense» (“soutenance” in French) by the student in front of a jury (the equivalent of a PhD examining board or panel of examiners), which will be made up of academic staff and other specialists in the discipline, leading to the award of the degree of Doctor. Alongside your research work, you will also have to take training courses, both in your own scientific subject area as well as in other cross-disciplinary subjects, like career integration.

THE STATUS OF PHD STUDENTS

A PhD is both a research training program and a professional research experience. Since there are several types of funding (scholarship, contract, personal funds, etc.) and Doctoral options (full thesis, joint thesis, CIFRE, etc.), the status of PhD students is halfway between that of a student and of a regular employee.

Knowing your status is important, both so that you can identify who to contact for specific needs and inquiries, and because some administrative procedures vary depending on your status (getting a visa or Social security, for example).

In short, there are two major different status for PhD students:

- PhD student with a French employment contract: PhD students with a doctoral or CIFRE contract.
- PhD student without a French employment contract: PhD students with a scholarship or without funding.

THE DOCTORATE STAKEHOLDERS

Laboratory, Doctoral college, research organization, Doctoral school, university... All these institutions have different missions and action scopes, and you will probably be in contact with all of them at some point of your stay.

To help you find your way, this section will present each institution’s activities in relation to PhD students.

RESEARCH STRUCTURE

Universities and research organizations:

- host different laboratories
- coordinate research policies
- are researchers’ direct employers (so the primary contact for all questions related to human resources)
- provide the “convention d’accueil” (hosting agreement)

Laboratories / research units:

- are workplaces for researchers and doctoral students of a specific research field. They are administratively attached to one or several universities, and/or one or several research organizations.
The Doctoral college, which pools and harmonizes the Doctoral schools’ practices:
- deals with administrative registration (student card)
- issues and awards PhD diplomas
- coordinates trainings that are unrelated to the subject area of the dissertation (including professional integration training)
- develops business connections.

The Doctoral school, which brings together PhD students around big scientific fields (Law, Chemistry, etc.):
- deals with pedagogical registration
- is responsible for the follow-up of the dissertation
- manages the disciplinary learning offer

The laboratory, or research unit, brings together researchers and PhD students around one or several research areas.

YOUR ENROLLMENT WITH THE DOCTORAL SCHOOL

Now that you have defined the scientific aspects of your Doctorate with your Doctoral supervisor and your laboratory, you will need the Doctoral school to validate your application. The Doctoral school director makes sure that the scientific, material and financial criteria are met, so that you can prepare your Doctorate in the best possible conditions.

The application file and procedures vary with each Doctoral school. We thus invite you to visit their web portal to find out more.

PLANNING YOUR BUDGET

Before leaving, it is essential to estimate your budget. Note that besides recurring expenses, you will have to spend a lot upon arrival!

MONTHLY EXPENSES
Accommodation is the main expense for a Doctoral student and can be as much as 50% of the monthly budget. Expect to spend between €210 and €600 per month depending on the type of accommodation, plus charges (water, electricity, and gas, €30 to €60). Food ranks second: you will spend about €300 per month.

Then come leisure activities, transportation, phone and internet subscriptions, not to mention health care costs, which, even if they are well reimbursed in France, still represent a cost.

EXPENSES UPON ARRIVAL
Beware, there are lots of expenses upon arrival, and it is possible that you will spend more than €1000: university registration fees, the first month rent, a deposit for accommodation, subscriptions for water, electricity, telephone and the internet, insurances, etc...

FINANCING YOUR STAY
Work
To finance your studies, if you do not already have an employment contract for your Doctoral research, you can work part-time for up to 964 hours a year, i.e. 60% of the legal annual number of working hours in France.

GOOD TO KNOW
In some cases, the type of visa you hold may not allow you to work in France. If you have any questions, please contact the International Students and Scholars Office - ISSO (see the section “Need Help? Your contacts” in this guide).

GOOD TO KNOW
International PhD students can benefit from a financial aid for their rent, from the French state, and paid by the CAF (Caisse d’Allocations Familiales). Beware, this aid is subject to conditions and its amount partly depends on your financial resources.

SEARCHING FOR ACCOMMODATION

Finding accommodation in the region can be challenging, especially in Grenoble, but there are many options. We recommend you start looking for accommodation at least two months prior to your arrival in France.

PUBLIC UNIVERSITY RESIDENCES (CROUS)

This is by far the most economical option, but keep in mind that it does have some drawbacks:

- There is a limited number of rooms available: prepare your application well in advance and send it in as early as possible, especially if you are arriving around the start of the academic year.
- This type of accommodation is not appropriate if you are a couple or if you are coming with your children.
- Accommodation is allocated based on application files, and in particular on financial resources. Sending in an application does not guarantee that you’ll get a room!

How to apply for CROUS student accommodation?

Whether you will be in Grenoble for a long or short stay, you have to apply by filling out the “Hébergement passager-doctorant” (Doctoral student accommodation) form with the CROUS.

> www.crous-grenoble.fr/demanderunlogement/loge-ment-etudiant-international/

If you receive a scholarship from the French government managed by Campus France

Contact the Campus France agency directly, and they will examine your application in connection with the CROUS accommodation department.

PRIVATE RENTAL SECTOR

The private rental sector offers far more possibilities. However, it may be challenging for PhD student to find accommodation at a distance. It is generally preferable in this case to book temporary accommodation for a few weeks and then look for permanent accommodation on arrival (see the “Booking temporary accommodation” section in this guide)

Searching for accommodation

- Via the national web portal for student housing LoKaviZ: this website references rental offers in the private sector for apartments, shared accommodation, and rooms in private houses. You need to create an account to get contact information. www.lokaviz.fr
- Via real estate agencies: these offer a wide choice of accommodation and serve as an intermediary between landlords and tenants throughout the rental period. However, you will need to pay for their service (agency fees). In Grenoble, these agency fees can reach a maximum of €10/m², to which €3/m² will be added as inventory fees
- Via private owners: some landlords prefer to handle the rental of their property themselves and publish their offer on websites. In this case, there are no agency fees, but please note that this solution does not offer the same guarantees or structure as a real estate agency.
- Via websites specialized in accommodation sharing
- Via private student residences
- Via Grenoble’s “Association Départementale Information Initiative Jeunesse” (ADIIJ), which publishes private listings. www.info-jeunes.fr

FINDING A GUARANTOR

French law protects tenants from evictions. That is why almost all owners require tenants to have a guarantor for rent payment.

A guarantor is a person, a fiscal resident in France, who agrees to pay your rent in your stead if you can no longer ensure the payment. For international students who may have difficulties in finding a guarantor in France, other solutions exist, namely the «Visale» procedure, which is also accepted by CROUS.

GOOD TO KNOW
Temporary accommodations booked online with private owners do not allow to get a proof of address in France, document which is required to open a bank account in France.

PERSONALIZED ASSISTANCE IN GRENOBLE, WITH THE INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS & SCHOLARS OFFICE - ISSO

If you register with our ISSO Euraxess “guest researchers’ database”, you will receive:
- Personalized advice to help you look for accommodation
- Access to negotiated prices for stays in hotel residences

FINDING A VISA

Except for nationals from the European Economic Area, Monaco, Andorra and Switzerland, it is necessary to get a visa to enter and study in metropolitan France.

TO FIND OUT WHETHER YOU NEED A VISA:
> https://france-visas.gouv.fr

WHAT TYPE OF VISA TO APPLY FOR?

If you have an employment contract from France or your home country, you will follow the visa application procedure “Passeport talent” bearing the statement “chercheur” (scientist/researcher).

If you do not have a French employment contract, you will follow the visa application procedure Long Stay Visa (“Visa Long Séjour”, “VLS-TS”) bearing the statement “étudiant” (student).

PREPARING YOUR APPLICATION FILE

According to the type of visa you apply for, various documents will be required, including a proof of address in France (which might be temporary accommodation).

Doctoral students who have a French employment contract, will have to provide a document entitled “Conventional d’accueil” (hosting agreement). The Human Resources department of your host university or organization will provide you with this document.

For Doctoral students applying for a student visa, the consulate will examine, as well as your admission to university, many aspects of your application, including proof of sufficient resources. The requirement is at least €615 per month for the duration of your visa.

FAMILY

If you are married and you are coming with your spouse and/or children, they will have to apply for a visa. To make the process easier, we recommend they apply for their visa while you are applying for yours.
LEARNING ABOUT HEALTH INSURANCE COVERAGE

In France, the healthcare system generally takes care of most healthcare costs. Subscription to health insurance is mandatory for stays of more than 3 months, unless there is a bilateral agreement between France and your country of origin. This is the case for all member states of the European Union, European Economic Area, as well as Switzerland and Quebec: steps are thus to be taken before your arrival in France.

YOUR HEALTH INSURANCE ORGANIZATION («SÉCURITÉ SOCIALE»)

There are two different health insurance organisms for PhD students: CPAM and MGEN. Depending on your status, you will affiliate to one or the other. Both organisms have the same reimbursement rate.

- You have a French employment contract:
  You will be covered from the 1st hour worked by the health insurance general scheme («Sécurité sociale»). Your financial contribution for health insurance will be automatically deducted at source. However, registration is not automatic: you will have to register with either CPAM or MGEN. See the section “Registering with health insurance” in this guide to know more about the procedure. We recommend you take out a private health insurance in order to be covered at the beginning of your stay: from arrival in France to the start of your employment contract.

- You do not have a French employment contract:
  - You are from Europe (EU/EEA) or Switzerland: prior to your arrival, you have to get a European Health Insurance Card from the health insurance provider of your country of origin. It must be valid for the whole duration of your stay in France.
  - You are from Quebec: you have to get a certificate issued by the “Régie d’Assurance Maladie du Québec” (RAMQ) before you come to France.

GOOD TO KNOW
> https://ramq.gouv.qc.ca/
section Citizens > Absence from Québec

- For other nationalities: After your arrival in France and after you completed your administrative enrollment at university, you must register with French social security via the website dedicated to international students:
> http://etudiant-etranger.ameli.fr/

This registration is free of charge, but can take up to several weeks. In order to be covered straight from your arrival in France, and during the first weeks of your stay, we recommend you take out a private health insurance before leaving.

FIND OUT MORE ➤

Section Health
HEALTHCARE COST COVERAGE

Health insurance, covers only a part of healthcare costs, and the reimbursement rate varies according to the type and importance of treatment needed. To cover the remaining healthcare costs that are uncovered by social security, we highly recommend you take out an additional health insurance, known as “complémentaire santé” or “mutuelle”.

Healthcare cost coverage example for a visit to a general practitioner at the standard health insurance rate:

UNCOVERED COST:

1€ reimbursed by your complementary health insurance
0€ reimbursed if you have no complementary health insurance
8,50€ reimbursed if you have no complementary health insurance

FAMILY

- Children (under 18): If you come to France with your children, they will also need to subscribe to a health insurance. It is possible to add your children to your own health insurance plan. In this case, this will be done at the same time as your own subscription.
- Spouse: If you come with your spouse, he/she will also have to subscribe to a health insurance. It is not always possible for spouses to register with a health insurance organization straight upon arrival in France. We therefore recommend subscribing to a private health insurance for the first months of their stay.

> https://international.univ-grenoble-alpes.fr/en/Section Family > Family health

GOOD TO KNOW

There are two other mandatory insurances to be taken out upon arrival in France: the housing insurance, and the civil liability insurance.

For more information, see the section “You have just arrived” in this guide.

REPATRIATION INSURANCE

We also advise you to take out repatriation insurance for the duration of your stay, before your arrival in France, in order to cover for repatriation expenses in the event of serious illness or death. Some bankcards include a repatriation insurance, check with your bank before leaving.

GOOD TO KNOW

If you need to subscribe to a private health insurance for your first months of residence, before you register with Social security or for your family, please note that you can benefit from negotiated offers from a partner insurance company as part of the EURAXESS network (by registering with the “guest researchers” database”, through ISSO’s web portal).

PREPARING YOUR ARRIVAL: CHECKLIST AND TIPS

DO NOT FORGET:

- Your identity card (European nationals) or passport.
- Health record and vaccination certificates (if available)
- Original of your birth certificate with filiation, along with its French translation (see «Good to know» note below.).
- The original of your Master’s degree (or equivalent).
- Your driver’s license if you want to use a car in France.
- Socket adapter.

- Health record and vaccination certificates (if available)
- Original of your birth certificate with filiation, along with its French translation (see «Good to know» note below.).
- The original of your Master’s degree (or equivalent).
- Your driver’s license if you want to use a car in France.
- Socket adapter.

Good to know

Every document written in a language other than French (birth certificate, driver’s license, etc.) must be translated by a translator sworn by the French courts. If you want to translate these documents before leaving, we recommend asking the French embassy or consulate in your country, in order to have the translated documents legalized or apostilled.

Doctoral students who have a “Passeport talent” visa, bearing the statement “chercheur”:

- The original of the “Convention d’accueil” (hosting agreement) issued by the Human Resources department of your host university or organization.

Doctoral students who have a Long-Stay Visa (“VLS-TS”) bearing the statement “étudiant”:

- The acceptance letter signed by the director of your laboratory.
- Proof of your financial resources (scholarship, salary, etc.).

European (EU/EEA), Swiss and Quebec nationals:

- The European Health Insurance Card (EHIC, or ‘CEAM’ in French) or a certificate issued by the “Régie de l’Assurance Maladie du Québec” (RAMQ).

Good to know

Every document written in a language other than French (birth certificate, driver’s license, etc.) must be translated by a translator sworn by the French courts. If you want to translate these documents before leaving, we recommend asking the French embassy or consulate in your country, in order to have the translated documents legalized or apostilled.

Tips

- Scan all your important documents and send them to your mailbox. Also take two or three photocopies of these documents with you, you will quickly need them upon arrival.
- If you travel by plane, keep all the documents from the checklist with you: they can be claimed upon arrival by the border control services.
- Write down the essential information in case you do not have internet access upon arrival: accommodation’s address, reception telephone number (for student residences), directions between the station and your accommodation with bus and tram numbers, contact at your laboratory, etc.
- If your country uses a currency other than the euro, consider changing money to make your first payments. Before leaving, check the terms of overseas money withdrawal with your card, because opening an account in France can take from one to two weeks (see the “Opening a bank account” section in this guide).
- If you do not have a European Health Insurance Card, or a RAMQ form, remember to get a private health insurance contract in order to be covered during the first weeks of your stay in France.
STEP 3

GETTING INTERNET ACCESS

Lots of wifi spots are available for you to use upon your arrival:
- In airports, cafes, but also in different places in the town centre.
- In university restaurants and students residences.
- On university campuses: you will get your logins and passwords to access the wifi campus network at the time of your enrollment at university.

On the Grenoble campus, computers are available with free access to the internet at the iCampus – Welcome center.

In Valence, free access computers are available in public libraries.

All mobile tariffs in France include, on top of calls, an (almost) unlimited Internet access. You can get monthly subscriptions, or buy pre-paid cards.

GOOD TO KNOW

Remember to check the roaming charges from your provider if you wish to access the internet with your mobile phone upon arrival in France.

FINDING ACCOMMODATION ONCE YOU HAVE ARRIVED

Finding accommodation requires engagement and time: regularly check offers on the Internet and with real estate agencies, and do not hesitate to seek advice from your host laboratory.

When visiting accommodations, remember to bring several copies of all the necessary paperwork: this will allow you to be first in line if you find the place of your dreams! Check the “Searching for accommodation” section in this guide for more detailed information on searching for accommodation in the private rental sector.

WHEN ENTERING YOUR ACCOMMODATION

Signing the rental agreement (“bail”)

Before you can move in, the landlord and yourself must sign a rental agreement, called “bail” (lease) in French. This agreement is drawn up in two copies and defines the rental conditions, stating the amount of the rent, the surface area of the accommodation, the duration of the agreement, etc. When signing the agreement, you will have to pay various entry fees, such as:

- the security deposit
- the agency fees (if you rented through a real estate agency), and the inventory fees
- the first month’s rent

GOOD TO KNOW

During the inventory, pay close attention to any defects or damage in the accommodation and do not forget to read the inventory report before you sign it. A copy of the inventory must be given to you. If you want to modify or add to the inventory, you must send a registered letter with proof of delivery (“recommandé avec accusé de reception”) detailing the modifications you want to make, within 10 days after moving in.

Water, electricity, gas, internet and a landline

If water, electricity and gas are not included in the rental charges (in university residences, they are usually included), you have to take out contracts with providers of your choosing, even if you already have access to water, electricity and gas when you move in.

GOOD TO KNOW

For any stay longer than 3 months, Doctoral students can apply for housing allowance (called “APL” or “ALS” in France) to the CAF (“Caisse d’Allocations Familiales”). This financial assistance is granted to people with low incomes. It is calculated based on the type of housing, the amount of the rent, the Doctoral student’s financial resources and his/her personal situation. All applications are submitted online, on the CAF website. Before applying, carry out a simulation, to get an estimate of the allowance you might be granted. Caution: Visas stating “dispense temporaire de carte de séjour” cannot benefit from housing allowances.

ENTRY INVENTORY (“État des lieux d’entrée”)

An entry inventory is a procedure whereby the owner and the tenant review the state of the apartment and record any defects or damage in a written report. It must be carried out systematically before renting, and your presence is mandatory. It also defines the responsibilities of each party in case of litigation. At the end of the stay, it will be compared to the exit inventory. This step generally occurs before the keys are handed over, but can be performed the same day. If the inventory is carried out by a professional, you will be charged partly.

INSURING YOUR ACCOMMODATION

All rented accommodation must be insured by the tenant for rental risks: fire, water damages, or explosions. However, this insurance does not necessarily cover possessions you have in your home, for example in case of burglary. You can get information from banks, student insurance companies or any other insurance company, which offer rental insurance contracts and “multi-risk” insurance contracts. You will have to provide a certificate of rental insurance to your owner or the agency.
OPENING A BANK ACCOUNT

The opening of a French bank account is almost essential (though not mandatory), since wage payments and health costs reimbursements can be paid only to a French bank account. You will need to provide a proof of address in France to open a bank account. Note that temporary accommodations do not always make it possible to get such a document.

Steps to follow to open a bank account:
- Choose a bank: check if your bank in your home country has a partnership with a French bank, or if your institution has concluded a privileged partnership.
- Make an appointment with a bank advisor.
- Prepare your file with the requested documents, which usually are:
  - proof of identity (ID card, or passport)
  - proof of address with your name on it (rental agreement or ‘bail’, certificate of university students residence, rent receipt, electricity bill, etc.)
- Student card (optional, in case of special offers)

GOOD TO KNOW
Opening an account is usually free of charge, but some services may have to be paid for (credit card, money transfers, overdraft facilities, etc.). Get as much information as possible and do not hesitate to compare several bank offers!

TAKING OUT CIVIL LIABILITY INSURANCE

There are three mandatory insurances in France: health insurance, rental liability insurance, and civil liability insurance. The civil liability insurance (‘assurance responsabilité civile vie privée’), covers any damage you may involuntarily cause to others. It is also required to complete your administrative registration at university. If you have taken out a «multirisque habitation» insurance, it usually contains the civil liability insurance, check with your insurance provider.

GOOD TO KNOW
Some laboratories require you to take out civil liability insurance before you arrive in France. It is possible to get this insurance from a Euraxess partner insurance provider, by registering to ISSO’s ‘Guest researchers database’. For more information, contact the Human Resources department of your university or host organization, or ISSO.

COMPLETING YOUR ENROLLMENT

By this stage, the director of your Doctoral school will have validated your application regarding all educational matters and forwarded your file to the Doctoral college. The Doctoral college will send you an email to make an appointment for your administrative enrollment, the last step to validate the start of your Doctorate. During the enrollment process, you will have to pay the enrollment fees. You will then be given your student card, proof that you are now officially a Doctoral student at the Université Grenoble Alpes.

GOOD TO KNOW
Once your enrollment is completed, you will receive your access codes to connect to the campus Wi-Fi.

OBTAINING A CVEC ATTESTATION

Except if you are doing a joint doctorate which includes a registration fee exemption, you will need to obtain a CVEC attestation before being able to complete your enrollment at the Doctoral college. The Student and Campus Life Contribution (CVEC) finances students’ services: health, sports, culture and student initiatives. But beware, the CVEC is not an insurance!

REGISTERING WITH HEALTH INSURANCE

HEALTH INSURANCE (“SÉCURITÉ SOCIALE”)
The registration process with health insurance varies depending on your status and your nationality. If you have any questions regarding the procedure you have to follow, feel free to ask the Human Resources department or the International Students & Scholars Office - ISSO.

You have a French employment contract
Registration is not automatic. You will need to fill in a form called «demande d’ouverture de droits» or «demande d’affiliation», enclose all the required documents, and send it all to your health insurance organization:

- If you have a «Passeport talent» visa: you must send your registration file to: CPAM de Paris, SRI/Talents, 75948 Paris Cedex 19. The CPAM in Paris will also be your contact for all reimbursement matters.
- If your employment contract is less than 10 months long, and you do not have a «Passeport talent» visa: you must send your registration file to the CPAM of your place of residence.
- If your employment contract is more than 10 months long, and you do not have a «Passeport talent» visa: you must send your registration file to the MGEN of your place of residence; you can go directly to the MGEN agency.

You do not have a French employment contract

- You are from Europe (EU/EEA) or Switzerland: you must have a European Health Insurance Card, valid for the whole duration of your stay. If you do not have a European Health Insurance Card, or as soon as it expires, you must register with the French health insurance (CPAM), via their website dedicated to new international students:
  > https://etudiant-etranger.ameli.fr/#/.
- You are from Quebec: you must have a certificate issued by the RAMQ, covering you during the whole duration of your study stay in France. If not, contact the RAMQ immediately.
- For all other nationalities: after completing your administrative enrollment at university, you have to register with the French health insurance, CPAM, via their website dedicated to new international students:
  > https://etudiant-etranger.ameli.fr/#/.

This registration is free of charge. Only three documents are necessary to start registering: your passport, your visa, and a proof of registration at university (the ‘certificat de scolarité’, issued by the Doctoral college).

FAMILY

Children (under 18): If you come with your children, you will have to add them to your health insurance plan or to your spouse’s if he/she comes with you to France. You will have to do this at the same time as your own registration and with the same organization (CPAM, MGEN), by filling in an underage children’s registration form (“formulaire de rattachement des enfants mineurs”).

Spouse: If your spouse moves to France with you, they must have their own health insurance plan. The health insurance organization he/she will need to register with depends on your and his/her situation. More information available on ISSO’s website:
  > https://international.univ-grenoble-alpes.fr/en/Section Family > Family health

ADVICE

Always keep a health insurance certificate with you, in case you go to a doctor, or in the event of an accident.

ADDITIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE (“COMPLÉMENTAIRE SANTÉ” OR “MUTUELLE”)
The health insurance « sécurité sociale » covers only part of the medical expenses. To be better reimbursed, we highly recommend you take out an additional health insurance, known as « complémentaire santé » or « mutuelle ».

Many insurance providers have special offers for students. Take your time to compare the different offers according to your needs.

If you are registered with the French social security, and have a limited budget, you can apply for the ‘Complémentaire Santé Solidaire’ at the local CPAM. Several criteria will be taken into account, including your financial resources. Its cost ranges from 0€ to 30€. You will know whether your application was accepted or not within two months after having submitted your complete file.

- If you came with your spouse or with adult children (18 years old or more), depending on their - and your - visa type, they will have to either validate it online, or apply for a residence permit upon arrival. The ISSO team - Immigration assistance department is here to guide and accompany them in these procedures.

But if you plan to travel out of France, you will have to ask for a movement document (“document de circulation”, called “DCEM”), to the Prefecture. For more information, contact ISSO’s Immigration assistance department.

If your visa bears the mention «Étudiant» or «Passeport talent Chercheur»: you have to validate your visa online. Within the first 3 months upon your arrival in France, as soon as you have a fixed address, go to the ‘Direction Générale des Étrangers en France’ website:

Once you have completed the procedure, and paid for the resident permit tax, you will receive a confirmation by email. Keep this document for the whole duration of your stay, and particularly if you are traveling.
